INJECT NEW LIFE INTO YOUR HOME SETTING

Re-energize your space with these low-cost ideas

As February rolls into the Okanagan, many are needing something to brighten up the days. In particular, those who have been staying home with little respite can begin to feel the monotony of routine. Here are some tips to change up your living space while giving you projects to accomplish while at home:

Old Made New

Chances are you have some old paint cans hanging around with bits of paint left that you were saving for touch-ups. This can be used to repaint some old furniture or transform a discarded piece from storage. Give that mirror frame a new look or decorate some planters. You can also add a retro look to your décor by bringing out some antique pieces that are collecting dust like old radios, antique sports equipment, etc.

Take a Second Look

Take a step back to look at your rooms from a different perspective. Imagine shifting things around, making a different focal point or even moving furniture or artwork from one room to another. Take a pencil and paper to sketch some different layout plans to try. Rethink your kitchen and how you could optimize your counter and cupboard space by rearranging. Reposition your appliances for more efficient workflow or put some of the lesser used out of the way and out of sight.

Streamlining and Storage

A cluttered living space can add stress and anxiety to the background of your life. Develop systems so that you only need to touch each piece of mail once before it goes to recycling, actionable or the garbage bin. Go through your closets and bedroom dressers getting rid of the unneeded and unused. Reorganize your bookcases to create more space on the shelves to insert pictures or other items of interest. A cleared space is a clear mind.
